

Gloria Nemerowicz is founder (2011) and president of the Yes We Must Coalition: College Success for All, a non-profit organization of 43 (currently) private, non-profit colleges and universities across the country that primarily enroll students from low-income families. The Yes We Must Coalition seeks to raise public awareness, share resources and collaborate on projects to improve graduation rates for underserved students. The Coalition has received support for operations and for collaborative projects from the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation, Kresge Foundation, The Teagle Foundation, Lumina Foundation and Ascendium Education.

Dr. Nemerowicz served for 15 years as president of Pine Manor College (MA), during which time the college adopted a mission to provide an education for inclusive leadership and social responsibility. The college ranked consistently as one of the most diverse in the nation. From 1993 to 1996, she was the founding executive director/CEO of the Women's Leadership Institute at Wells College (NY). From 1976 to 1993, Dr. Nemerowicz was a tenured member of the faculty, dean of the School of Humanities & Social Sciences, and vice provost /dean of the School of Arts & Sciences at Monmouth University (NJ).

Dr. Nemerowicz is a member of the national Postsecondary Value Commission, supported by the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and managed by the Institute for Higher Education Policy. She is the author of Children's Perceptions of Gender and Work Roles (1979) and co-author, with JoAnn Gora, of Professionalism in Unpaid Work (1989) and, with Eugene Rosi, of Education for Leadership and Social Responsibility (1997). She received her BA, MA, and Ph.D. (Sociology) from Rutgers University. She has been awarded honorary doctoral degrees by Marygrove College, MI (2012), Heritage University, WA (2011) and Pine Manor College (2011).